

• VENUE OPTIONS • THREE DIRECTIONS

Ten days in New York. Spring 2027.

Three blank-canvas venues for the brand's second-year pop-up: a street-level Broadway flagship at Casa Panorama, a whole SoHo building at Casa Luz, and a street-level art centre at Casa Brutal in Williamsburg. Each one has room for the café, retail, kitchen, programming and back-of-house. We're sourcing more options, and these are the three to walk first.

A NOTE FROM COCOON

Jade, Lucas — thank you for the time last week. Here are the venues we talked about, priced for ten days, ready for your deck.

You told us what didn't work last year: a location that couldn't drive foot traffic without heavy social, and a single open floor that meant building temporary rooms with your fabricator to satisfy permits. So every venue here is below Midtown, has at least two levels, and has rooms that are already separated, so the café, retail, kitchen and back-of-house can each have their own space.

To answer your question: both Manhattan venues start at street level. At Casa Panorama, the pop-up is the ground floor, a Broadway shop floor with the lower level beneath it. At Casa Luz, the event floors are the 2nd and 3rd, but Cocoon runs the whole building, so the experience starts at the front door. Guests arrive through a private street entrance and ground-floor lobby that can be fully branded, then go up in a private elevator.

We've placed soft holds across the last two weeks of April and the first two weeks of May. Casa Brutal is in Williamsburg rather than Manhattan, but it sits in one of the busiest, best-looking streetscapes in Brooklyn, so we've included it for the walkthrough. We're also sourcing more Manhattan options, including around Midtown, and will share them as they're confirmed.

Whichever one you choose, a dedicated Cocoon on-site manager (Nafisa, who you'll meet at the walkthrough) is your contact for the full run, including load-in, permits and building logistics, and anything that comes up on the day.

— EDUARD & ANDRÉS, COCOON FLEX SPACES

The second year of a global pop-up for an international sports brand: a café, a retail store, a working kitchen, and ten days of programming in the part of New York that already has the foot traffic.

WHAT THE POP-UP IS DOING

A café selling ticketed goods, a retail store selling clothing, and a kitchen hosting private lunches and dinners (closed, ticketed catering with no raw food). Around those, a daily programme with partners: an F1 gaming section, run clubs, brunches, startup and investor talks, and a comedy night. Private opening and closing parties for around 350 guests with DJs and check-in.

WHAT THE VENUE NEEDS TO DELIVER

A blank canvas your fabricator and AV team can transform. At least two levels, with a large back-of-house for the kitchen and retail stock. Rooms that are already separated, so you're not building walls to satisfy permits. Ground-floor access for load-in, if possible. SoHo or nearby, with real street traffic. And a rooftop for a day or two, for yoga or a run-club moment.

INCLUDED WITH EVERY VENUE IN THIS DECK

A dedicated Cocoon on-site manager for every booked hour, cleaning between live days, a complimentary walkthrough and tech scout with your fabricator and AV team, and help with building approvals, COIs and permits. All figures below are venue-only and all-in, plus processing fees. Blank canvas: at every venue, Cocoon handles removing any furniture, art or fixtures for your dates. This is an additional fee, which we'll quote once we know what needs to move.

TRIBECA / SOHO BORDER · 401 BROADWAY AT WALKER STREET · CANAL ST SUBWAY

A Casa Panorama

A Broadway shop floor at street level with seven huge windows, where SoHo meets Tribeca and a block from Canal Street. It's the most visible frontage in this deck, and it's built for walk-in traffic.

The 3,682 sq ft ground floor comes to you as a raw, white box: concrete floors, columns and a long run of windows, so your fabricator starts from nothing. The 3,482 sq ft lower level below gives you a full floor of back-of-house for kitchen operations, retail stock and crew. On top of that, the building's 27th-floor lounge (with its own kitchen and bar) and the rooftop above it can be added by the day, for a private dinner, a rooftop yoga session or a run-club send-off, without paying for them across the whole run.

GROUND	3,682 sq ft street-level floor · Broadway shop windows · café, retail, gaming, talks, parties
LOWER LEVEL	3,482 sq ft directly below · kitchen ops, retail stock, crew, BOH

WHY IT WORKS FOR THE POP-UP

NOTABLE FEATURES

It fixes last year's problem head-on. The shop windows do the job social couldn't: people walking down Broadway see the pop-up without having to look for it. Street-level entry makes load-in and load-out straightforward, and puts the café and retail where walk-ins arrive. The lower level keeps the kitchen, stock and crew out of sight. And on the days it matters, the brand can go up to the 27th floor and roof for private dinners and partner moments.

- Seven oversized shop windows on Broadway, available for branding
- Raw white box: concrete floors, columns, full-length windows
- Dedicated freight entrance on Walker Street · 24-hour building with front desk
- 27th floor: kitchen, bar, lounge, conference room, XR studio (add-on)
- Rooftop with 360° views, which we can book for just the days you need
- eBay's Fashion Week activation was built in this building this season

Ground floor + lower level · 10 days

Exclusive use of the 3,682 sq ft street-level floor and the 3,482 sq ft floor below it for ten days. There's room for the café, retail, gaming, talks and parties upstairs, and the kitchen, stock and back-of-house below.

Security, permits and production are not included (see Beyond the venue).

ADD-ON · BOOK BY THE DAY

27th-floor lounge + rooftop

For reference: added across all ten days, the full building comes to $286,900 all-in.

SOHO · 45 HOWARD STREET · STEPS FROM CANAL ST · 2ND + 3RD FLOORS

B Casa Luz

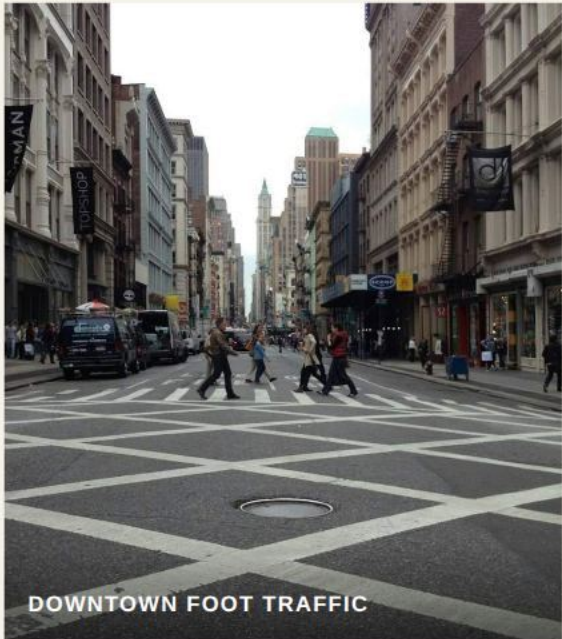

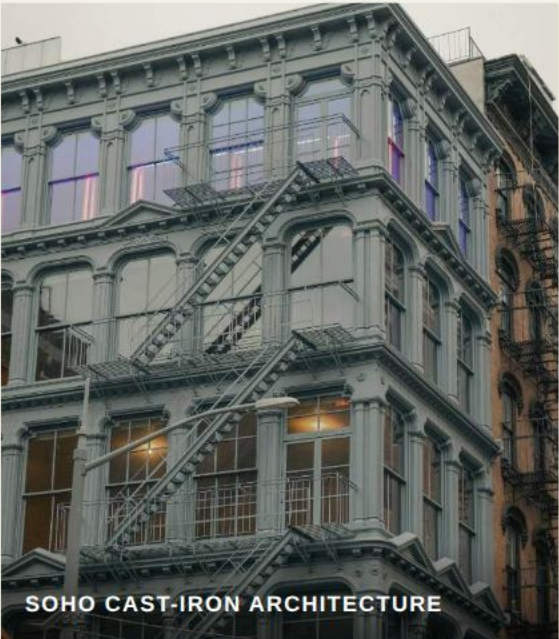

A whole building in the middle of SoHo. It's a 1910 cast-iron loft that Cocoon runs in full, so the experience starts at the front door: a private street entrance and ground-floor lobby, then a private elevator up to two full event floors.

The event spaces are the 2nd and 3rd floors, each about 3,500 sq ft, with 15-foot ceilings, cast-iron columns, exposed brick and big arched windows that bring in a lot of daylight. Because they're separate floors, you get separate rooms without building any. One floor can be the café and retail store, and the other the kitchen, private dining and back-of-house. With no other tenants, the street entrance, lobby and façade are yours to brand for the whole run. A 4th floor is also available if the programme grows.

GROUND	Private street entrance + lobby · cast-iron façade · branded arrival, check-in
FLOOR 2	Ballroom loft · arched windows · service pantry with dumbwaiter · café, retail, talks, parties
FLOOR 3	Open loft · ~3,000 sq ft main room + side rooms · kitchen, private dining, gaming, BOH
FLOOR 4	Additional loft floor · available as an add-on

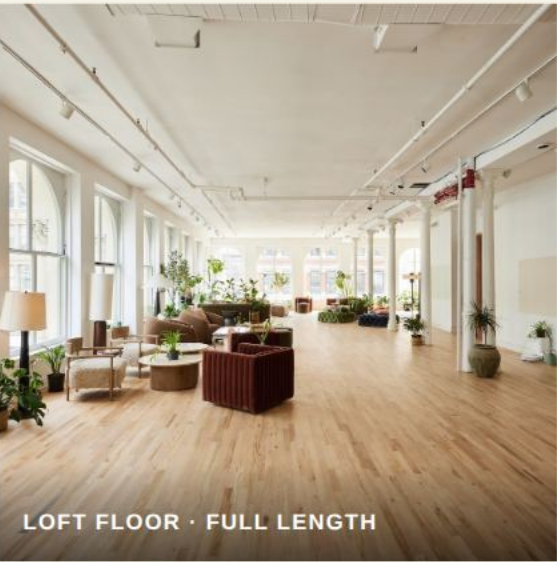

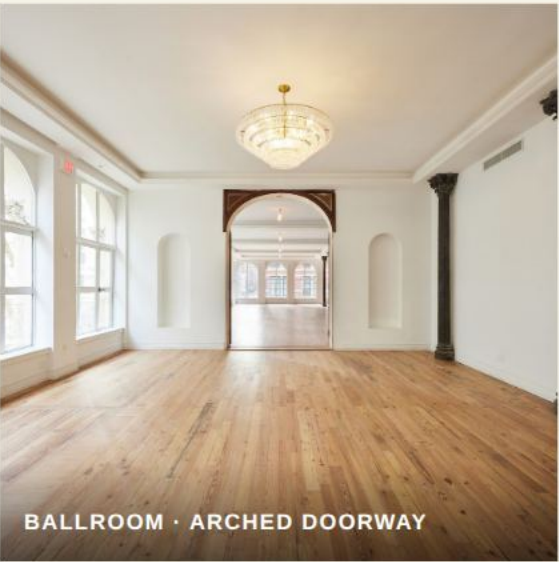

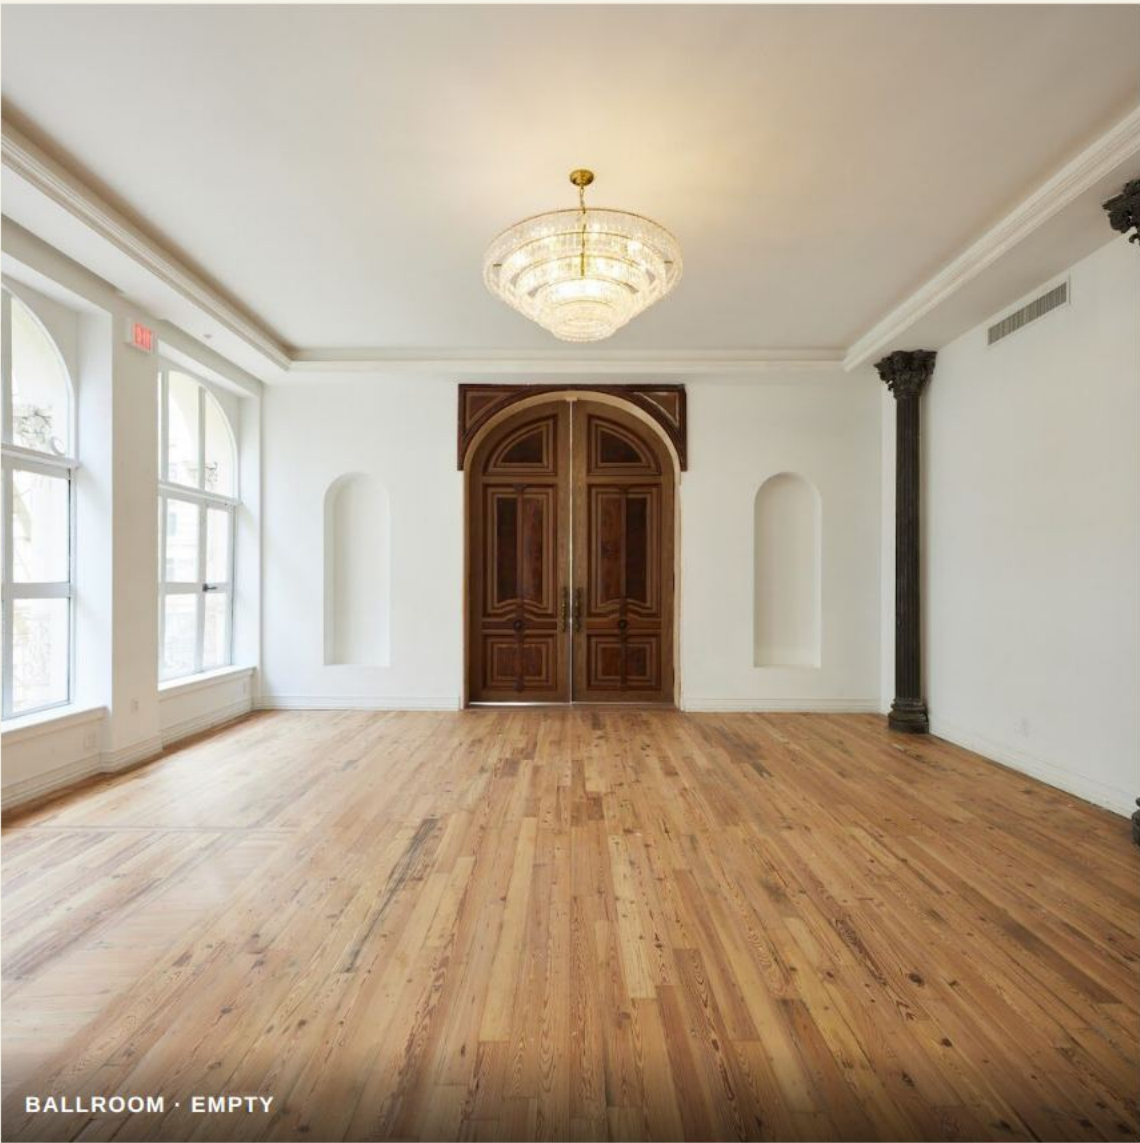

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD · SOHO

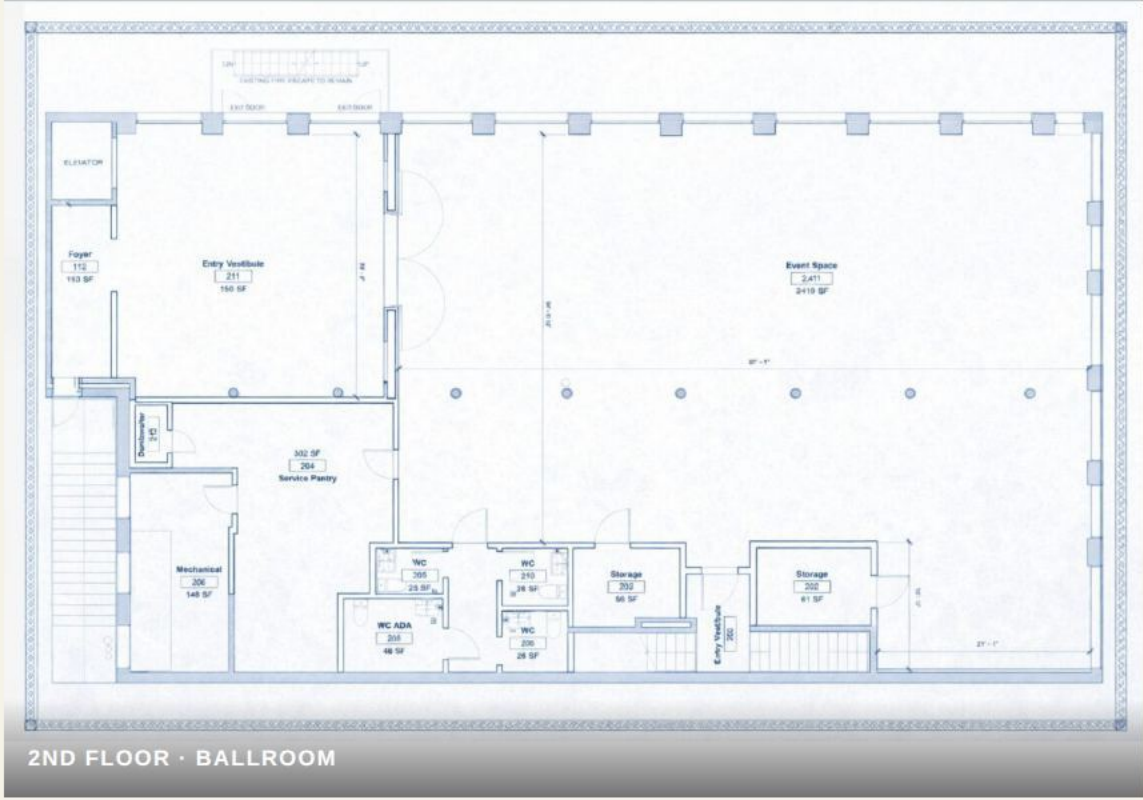

Howard Street sits in the heart of SoHo's cast-iron district, between Broadway, Lafayette and Canal, surrounded by flagship retail and some of the busiest pedestrian streets in the city.

WHY IT WORKS FOR THE POP-UP

This is the SoHo address you asked for, and a building you have entirely to yourselves. Guests start at street level, through your branded entrance and lobby, and two separate floors solve the room-separation problem without a fabricator. Because there are no other tenants, the private elevator and stair are yours for load-in, deliveries and guest flow. The thing to plan for is that the main rooms are upstairs, so the street presence comes from the façade, the entrance and the lobby rather than a shop window, and larger builds load in by elevator.

PRICING · 10 DAYS · 12 HRS/DAY

OPTION B

2nd + 3rd floors · with ground-floor entrance

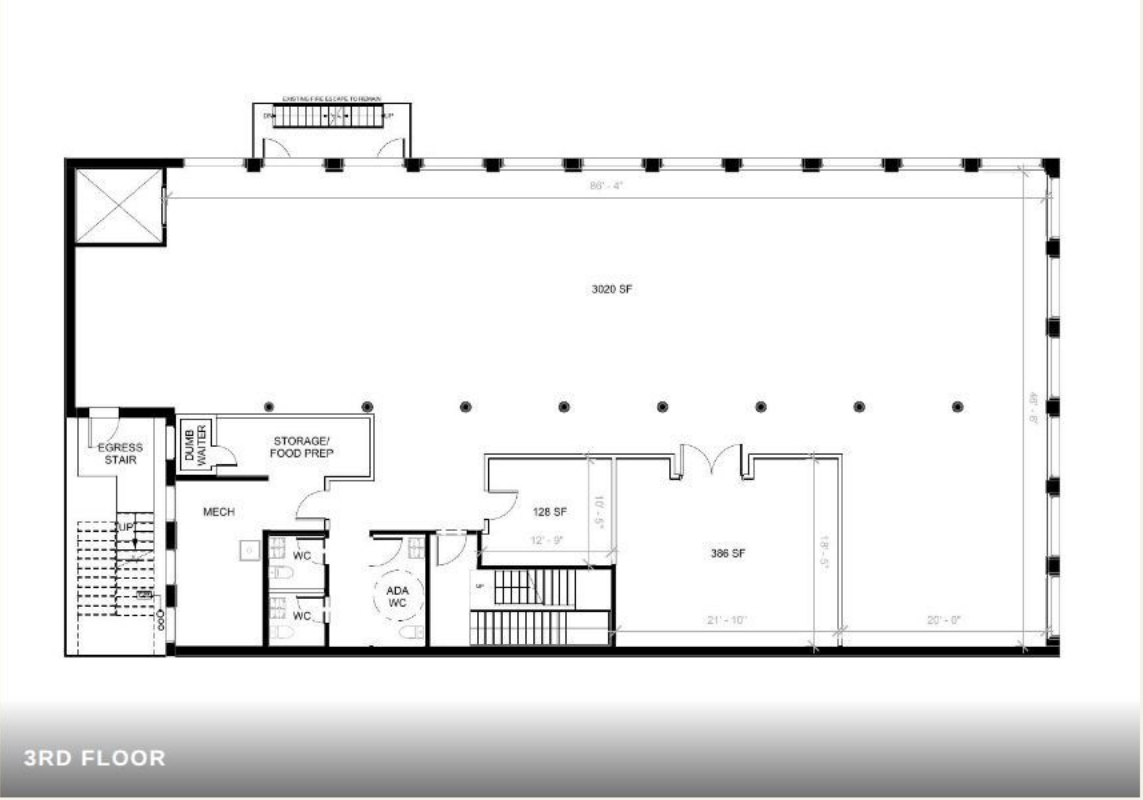

Two full loft floors for ten days, plus the private street entrance, lobby and elevator. There's room for front-of-house on one floor and kitchen, private dining and back-of-house on the other.

$238,900

ALL-IN · 10 DAYS · + PROCESSING FEES

≈ $23,890 per day

Venue-only and all-in: a dedicated Cocoon on-site manager for every booked hour and cleaning between days are included. Clearing furniture from the floors is handled by Cocoon for an additional fee, quoted on scope. Security, permits and production are not included.

NOTABLE FEATURES

- Whole building run by Cocoon · no outside neighbours
- Private ground-floor entrance + lobby · 2nd + 3rd floors ~3,500 sq ft each
- 15-ft ceilings · cast-iron columns · exposed brick · arched windows
- Private passenger elevator · ADA-compliant
- Service pantry with dumbwaiter on the 2nd floor for catering staging
- Street-level façade branding · steps from Canal St station

ADD-ON

4th floor

If the programme needs more room, such as a dedicated gaming floor, a green room for talent or more stock space, we can add the 4th loft floor for some or all of the run.

WILLIAMSBURG, BROOKLYN · 333 KENT AVENUE · WATERFRONT

Casa Brutal

WILLIAMSBURG

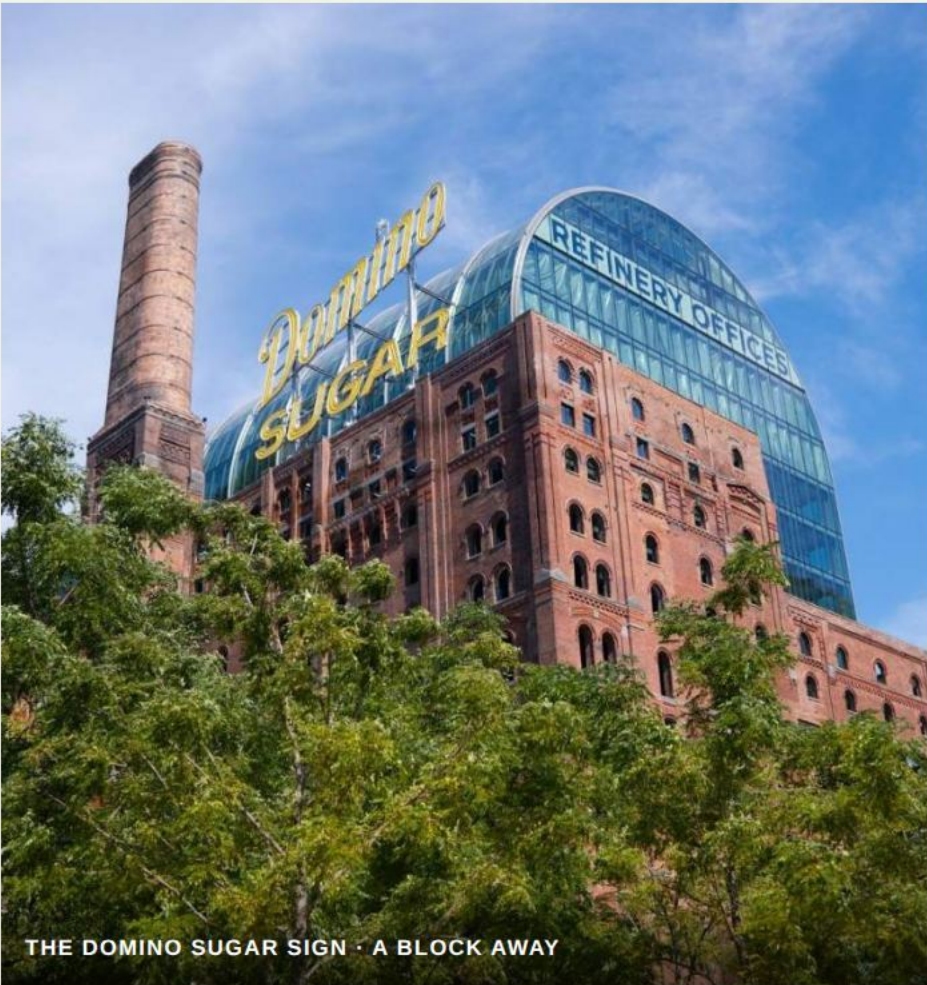

A brutalist art centre on Kent Avenue, a block from Domino Park and in the middle of Williamsburg's busiest, best-looking streets. We know Manhattan is the priority, but it ticks almost every other box in the brief.

More than 8,000 sq ft across a street-level gallery and a lower level, plus an outdoor terrace, delivered completely empty. The ground floor is a white-walled gallery with a long bar and its own garage door for load-in. Below it are a screening room and a second gallery. The two levels already work as separate rooms, so the café and retail can live upstairs while the kitchen, private dining, talks and comedy night go downstairs, with no temporary walls. Williamsburg's waterfront is where global sports, fashion and lifestyle brands increasingly choose to pop up.

GROUND	Gallery + long bar · street-level entry · garage door · café, retail, parties
LOWER	Screening room + second gallery · talks, comedy night, F1 gaming, kitchen, BOH
OUTDOOR	Terrace + planted garden · run-club meet-up, brunch overflow

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD · WILLIAMSBURG WATERFRONT

Kent Avenue runs along the Williamsburg waterfront, a block from Domino Park and the restored Domino Sugar refinery, and in the middle of Brooklyn's liveliest streets for shops, cafés and weekend crowds.

WHY IT WORKS FOR THE POP-UP

It combines street-level access, two separated levels and outdoor space in one building, and the architecture reads as considered rather than sporty. The neighbourhood does a lot of the work: Kent and Wythe Avenues, Domino Park and the waterfront draw a steady weekend crowd, and a run club along the East River practically programmes itself. The trade-off is that it isn't Manhattan, so it's the one to weigh against how much of the traffic the brand wants from the street versus from its own community.

NOTABLE FEATURES

- 8,000+ sq ft across two levels + outdoor terrace
- Street-level gallery with a built-in long bar
- Lower-level screening room with projection
- Garage-door load-in · passenger elevator · ADA ramp
- Delivered completely empty · true blank canvas

PRICING · 10 DAYS

OPTION C

On budget. You mentioned about $15,000 a day. For a full ten days, Casa Panorama comes to about $19.3K a day, Casa Luz about $23.9K and Casa Brutal about $30.4K. We want to find a version that works for the brand, and there are three ways to get there:

- Shorter hours on load-in and load-out days, when you don't need 12 hours of public-ready space.
- The 27th floor and rooftop only on programmed days at Casa Panorama, at $9,360 per day, rather than all ten.
- Booking early. April and May are peak activation season in New York, and committing to dates in the next few weeks gives us the most room to negotiate with the building.

Tell us which venue your client leans toward, and we'll model these options against it within 24 hours.

BEYOND THE VENUE · ONE POINT OF CONTACT

Security and door staff, permits, catering for the private dinners, and furniture strike and storage are all available through Cocoon.

The numbers above are for the venue only. Your fabricator and AV team work with us from the tech scout onward. Let us know which of these you'd like us to handle, and we'll come back with options from vendors who already know these buildings.

NEXT STEPS

Walk the spaces, choose a direction, and we'll lock in the dates.

01

Walkthrough

Eduard and Nafisa will take you, Lucas and the team through the venues on Thursday afternoon. Bring your fabricator or AV lead if you can. It's the best time to check load-in, power, room layout and what needs clearing. We'll share any new options before then.

02

Dates + NDA

Soft holds are in place across late April and early May. As soon as you have a ten-day block, we'll narrow them. If the brand can be shared with the building under an NDA, it speeds up approvals for branding and permits.

03

Budget calibration

Tell us which venue and which option your client prefers, and we'll model the options above against it, so you have one clear number to take to the brand.
